Oct 15, 1832 Mr. Chairman, - We have been accustomed to look back upon the period of our Revolution as the most eventful crisis in our country s history. The actors in the scenes of that day cannot recur to them without partaking of the anxiety that then filled every bosom, nor can their descendants review the page of history, that records the struggles, the sacrifices, the sufferings in the cause of Freedom, without sharing in the despondency, that, at times, oppressed the stoutest hearts - the high resolve, that the noble enterprise inspired - the excited hopes, which followed success - and the exultation at final victory. But, sir, in my judgment, there was no time in the darkest hour of that struggle, when the cause of Liberty was in more peril - there was no moment, when the utmost energies of the friends of free institutions were more earnestly called for, than...
