B-276318 We were unable to determine the effectiveness of the services provided to Effectiveness of help laid-off workers find new employment. Like most organizations, the Services Provided to five business combinations we examined did not have a comprehensive system in place to evaluate outplacement effectiveness. Officials cited Help Terminated various difficulties that prevent them from implementing such a system. Workers Find New Similarly, information needed to determine the effectiveness of these DOL. services is not readily available from Employment Could Not Be Determined Two basic elements are required in a comprehensive system for assessing the effectiveness of outplacement services: (1) criteria against which to make the assessment and (2) a tracking system to collect relevant shows that most DOL performance information. Our work and work by organizations do not evaluate outplacement services in terms of such criteria as whether those who received services are reemployed faster, received higher salaries, or were more satisfied with the jobs they found than a control group of those individuals who did not receive such 11 Participants at a recent workshop conducted by the Office of assistance. the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense (Civilian Personnel Policy) and the National Academy of Sciences concluded that no empirical work has been able to identify the aspects of outplacement programs that are the 12 most cost-effective and useful in terms of these criteria. The business combinations we examined did not have a comprehensive system in place to track the effectiveness of...
