Not illustrated. 1850 Excerpt: .people secures us against the injustice and assaults of foreign enemies, what has been our condition at home? Here every citizen stands erect in the proud proportions bestowed upon him by his Maker, and feels himself equal to his fellow man. He is protected by a government of just laws in the enjoyment of life, liberty, and property. He sits down under his own vine and his own fig-tree, and there is none to make him afraid. A vast confederacy composed of thirty-one sovereign and independent States is open before him, in which he feels himself to be every where at home, and may any where throughout its extended limits seek his own prosperity and happiness in his own way. The most perfect freedom of intercourse prevails among all the States. Here the blessings of free trade have been realized under the Constitution of the United States, and by the consent of all, to a greater extent than the world has ever witnessed. Our domestic tonnage and capital employed in this trade, exceed, beyond all comparison, that employed in our trade with all the rest of the world. The mariner of Maine, after braving the dangers of the passage around Cape Horn, finds himself at home in his own country, when entering the distant port of San Francisco, on the other side of the world. Heaven seems to have bound these States together by adamant bonds of powerful interest. They are mutually dependent on each other,...
